Dear Mr. Askinazi:

We, the staff of the ABA Standing Committee on Pro Bono and Public Service and the ABA Center for Pro Bono, congratulate and salute you as the recipient of the Children's Network International 2007 Champion of Freedom Award for the pro bono legal and business services you provided to this international charity dedicated to eradicating child trafficking. Your vision and distinguished service to your community and its poor and underserved inspire us each day in the work we do.

The Center for Pro Bono, a project of the ABA Standing Committee on Pro Bono and Public Service, is a national resource and support center that provides technical assistance and policy and planning advice to pro bono advocates as they endeavor to fulfill the promise of equal access to justice for those who cannot afford paid counsel. The Center provides comprehensive targeted services and information regarding pro bono policies, programs and projects to a wide range of organizations and individuals concerned with the delivery of legal services to the poor. Pro bono and legal services programs, law schools, client organizations, courts, law firms, corporate law departments, government law offices and others call on us regularly for assistance in expanding and improving their pro bono efforts.

Please do not hesitate to call on us to support you and your colleagues in your invaluable pro bono work.

With best regards,
